Allowable Subject Matter

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The present invention pertains a method of generating test patterns.

The prior arts, however, does not teach the combination of converting the test pattern into a digital circuit description language program and simulating the digital circuit description language program to produce a simulated test pattern, applying the simulated test pattern on the test circuit to obtain simulated test results, testing the test circuit using the digital circuit description language program to produce actual test results, comparing the simulated test results with the actual test results, if the simulated results and the actual results match, the test circuit is repeatedly test using the program until no delay is found between loop back, if the is a mismatch between the simulated results and the actual results, the digital circuit description language program is adjusted and written back to the memory unit again.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Christine T. Tu whose telephone number is (703)305-9689. The examiner can normally be reached on Mon-Thur. 8:30am-6:00pm.
